Weather of Concern

Northern California

- Breezy north winds and unseasonably warm temperatures over northern California Tuesday and Wednesday.

Southern California

- The warm and sunny conditions will give way to increasing clouds and periods of showers later in the week as two low pressure systems take aim at Southern California.
- Rainfall is expected to be showery in nature with light to moderate rainfall possible.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Medford Weather:

High pressure aloft will build into the West coast this week while at the surface the offshore flow will strengthen today through Thursday. Some marine stratus will hang around the North coast and Umpqua basin into this morning but all areas will clear by this afternoon and high temperatures will trend rapidly upward. After a cool morning highs today will be 5 to 10 degrees g above normal over most of our forecast area.

Eureka Weather:

A building ridge will bring above normal temperatures and dry conditions to the region through Thursday. Chances for showers will increase late in the week especially across the interior mountains.

Reno Weather:

High pressure building into the Great Basin will bring warm and dry conditions for the next few days, with afternoon highs reaching 80 degrees in lower elevations by Thursday. A change to a wetter and cooler pattern is likely to begin Friday and may continue into early next week as low pressure moves into California.

San Francisco Weather:

The weather will be much warmer today under building high pressure and offshore flow. Wednesday still looks like the hottest day this week with record or near record warmth. The hot weather will end abruptly on Thursday as low clouds and fog return to the coast along with onshore breezes. Chance of showers late Thursday night into Friday as an upper low approaches from the south. Unseasonably cool with a chance of showers Friday into Saturday.

Sacramento Weather:

Warm and dry weather into Thursday with locally breezy conditions. Next chance of precipitation Friday and into the weekend.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

Above normal temperatures will continue across central California through mid-week with possible record breaking heat on Wednesday. Otherwise, a series of storm systems will impact the region later this week and into the weekend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

High pressure aloft and some offshore flow will keep the area dry and very warm through Wednesday. On Thursday and continuing through the weekend a couple of low pressure systems will bring cooler conditions as well as the threat of showers.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Warm and dry weather will continue through Wednesday with high temperatures around 10 degrees above average for inland areas. The marine layer and weak onshore flow will keep coastal areas cooler with areas of night and morning low clouds and fog over the coastal waters extending locally inland. Weak offshore flow will bring locally gusty northeast winds near the coastal foothills on Wednesday. For Thursday through next weekend a pair of pacific low pressure systems will bring cooling more clouds and chances for showers.

Southeast California Weather:

The warmest temperatures so far this year will occur today and Wednesday with lower elevation communities seeing highs well into the 90s. An unsettled weather pattern will finally return to the southwest for the end of this week through the weekend yielding cooler conditions along with decent chances for rainfall.

CAL OES MISSIONS

New Cal OES Missions

- 2016-LAW-22255, 04/04/16, 0845 hours, The International Emergency Response Coordination Center (IERCC) advised of a Reach device sounding in San Diego County along the Pacific Crest Trail. The registered owner of the device stated she found a backpack and an individuals identification next to a cliff. It is her belief that the owner of the ID and backpack had fallen over the cliff. San Diego County Sheriff's Department (SDSD) was notified. Update: 04/04/16, 1600 hours, SDSD advised that the individual that owned the backpack and ID was located alive and well at his home in Lake Havasu City, AZ. He stated that he left the backpack on the side of the road because it was too heavy for him to carry and that his hike had been cancelled. Mission Closed.
